Workflow.com® Announces the Release of workflowBackOffice™

Cleveland, Ohio – Workflow.com, the leading provider of paperless office solutions that physicians use to improve patient care, today announced the release of workflowBackOffice. The new application will make the entire physician practice paperless, with the ability to track accounts payable, credentialing, and human resources.

“We recognize that physicians are operating a business,” stated Packy Hyland, CEO of Workflow.com. “If we set out to solve only one portion of our customers’ problems, then we are doing our customers a disservice. Addressing problems from a common platform makes sense for our customer – and for us.”

WorkflowBackOffice takes full advantage of OnBase – the award winning Enterprise Content Management system from Hyland Software that is incorporated into every Workflow.com application. Many organizations are running OnBase to manage their images and other products to perform other clinical and financial functions. Workflow BackOffice brings each of these components together into a harmonious package. The seamless look and feel throughout the entire application provides practices with an easy-to-use, yet comprehensive patient information management solution, enabling a practice's clinical and business operations to work hand-in-hand for better communication and improved accuracy.

Physicians and practice managers who are interested in taking advantage of Workflow BackOffice can find out more by emailing info@workflow.com or calling 800-438-9332.
